

Škoda Velotour fully booked - 10,000 participants ride through Frankfurt and the Taunus on May 1

Despite an increase in the number of starting places, the Škoda Velotour is already fully booked, just like last year. 10,000 amateur athletes will ensure a starting field for the cycling classic that is larger than ever before. Online registration was therefore closed in the run-up to the race. It will still be possible to change to longer distances or to other participants on 30.04. and 01.05. on site. It is always possible to switch to the shorter distance during the race.

After last year a limit of 8000 starting places was reached already two weeks before the event, this year's starting quota could be increased by a further 2000 places. But even this cap, which is intended to guarantee the high quality for every single starter, has now been reached. This testifies to the continuing boom in the scene and the attraction of the Eschborn-Frankfurt professional race, which rolls over the same roads as the recreational athletes shortly before.

The 10,000 starters, who make the Škoda Velotour one of the largest and most popular hobby bike races, have primarily opted for the longest of the three routes. Almost three quarters take on the 103 kilometers of the Škoda Velotour Taunus Classic, which leads over the Feldberg and the Mammolshainer Stich. The others are almost equally divided between the 92-kilometre Taunus Express route and the rather flat 40-kilometre Skyline Tour through Frankfurt and the Vordertaunus.

If you would like to secure your starting place for next year, you can already register now under the link Pre-registration for 2025.
