

Registration for the Škoda Velotour 2025 now open

Less than a month after the Škoda Velotour attracted 10,000 participants this year, registration for the next edition will open on May 1, 2025. The Eschborn-Frankfurt cycling classic is once again open to amateur athletes as well as professionals. Starting places for one of the biggest amateur cycling races are available from just 39 euros.

The number of participants will also be limited to 10,000 in 2025. There will also be limits on the individual routes. Early registration therefore not only guarantees a cheaper rate, but also your favorite route.

On offer are the familiar routes from previous years, which remain essentially unchanged. The Škoda Velotour Skyline covers around 40 kilometers on a flat route through Eschborn, Frankfurt and Oberursel and is therefore ideal for beginners. The more ambitious cyclists choose the Škoda Velotour Taunus Express route with around 90 kilometers. It takes you into the Hessian low mountain range and once over the Großer Feldberg. The Škoda Velotour Taunus Classic also includes a ride over the Mammolshainer Stich, for those looking for the complete professional feeling on around 100 kilometers.

For the first time, participants in the Škoda Velotour Taunus Classic have the opportunity to book the medal engraving and their own photos of the route as part of a package in addition to their starting place, thus saving money. Also available for everyone to book when registering: the new classic cycling jersey.

Sign up and do good

If you book a starting place, you can do good at the same time. When registering, it is possible to donate a junior euro for Hessian sporting talent or to support the Herzenswald Schmitt organization with a tree donation. Every tree donation contributes to the reforestation of the partially bare slopes in the Taunus. In the fall, 541 trees can already be planted, which come from the donations of this year's cycling classic. 204 trees for every kilometer of the professional race, 337 were donated by the starters of the Škoda Velotour.
